Getting Evidence into Practice: Improving Standards in Research and Evaluation across Social Care & Health

Monday 28th June 2004

Old Viewforth, Stirling

This event will address two broad areas: the way that research should be carried out to ensure the right balance of 'rigour and respect', and the effective dissemination of research findings.

Topics include:

- codes of good practice and ethical frameworks
- barriers to getting evidence into practice
- research utilisation in social work practice
- examples of good practice such as partnerships between universities, councils and other agencies
