

Book Reviews for Research, Policy and Planning

Research, Policy and Planning is the journal of the Social Services Research Group, a national professional network for those interested in research and research-related activities in areas such as health, housing, education and social care.

We are currently looking for academics, practitioners and/or service users who are interested in reviewing books for the journal. In addition to getting your review published in a respected journal, you also get to keep the book!

If you would be interested in doing a review, please complete the form below and return to Peter Scourfield at the address below.
